

Crevoshay Paris Triumph

"Illuminations" exhibit drew an international audience of fine art jewelry fans, collectors, and museum curators

Paula Crevoshay's one-woman show at the Sorbonne proved so popular with the public that the museum asked to extend it for two months! The invitational opening was quite the gala event, and Hanna was there—along with members of the press, representatives of the Louvre, the Sorbonne, the Mines Paris Tech, and many other friends and collectors from around the world. The exhibit was located in the center of one of the great mineral collections of the world, and Paula's works were displayed in a series of beautifully-lighted four-sided vitrines. Turn the page for lots of photos taken at the opening.

Celebrity Jewelry Sighting:

Cicely Tyson in Pamela Froman at the 2017 Black Film Festival Honors

When Cicely Tyson presented Denzel Washington with his Hollywood Legacy Award this February she did so in grand style, accessorizing her glittering B Michael America gown with a sexy triple wrap leather bracelet by Pamela Froman. Pamela uses the very softest black Italian lambskin as dramatic backdrop for dynamic swirls of red and yellow crushed gold, then ramps up the sizzle with diamond accents. Star turns all around.

Smithsonian Book features Crevoshay Butterfly Brooch

"The sapphire shall be as blue as the great sea...."

So begins the section on corundum, next to a featured illustration of Paula's famous "Conchita" brooch. As savvy Studio Jewelers clients know, sapphires actually do come in many colors besides blue, which the intricately detailed butterfly illustrates. All the sapphires in this piece were mined in Montana. "Conchita" is one of our national treasures, on permanent display in the Gem and Mineral Gallery at the Smithsonian— just up the way from the Hope Diamond!

New York's Cooper-Hewitt Museum Acquires a Moty

The Cooper-Hewitt, Smithsonian Design Museum in New York City has acquired Eleanor Moty's 1980 brooch, Tourmaline II, (pictured at left) which will be featured in the upcoming exhibit The Jewelry of Ideas: Gifts from the Susan Grant Lewin Collection of Contemporary Jewelry. The fabricated sterling brooch is set with a black tourmaline crystal and a polished slab of tourmalinated quartz.

Our beloved Eli slipped away peacefully in early November, attended by his long time friend, Dr. Adam Bauknecht. Eli was 20, and served as Studio Jewelers official greeter for 18-1/2 of those years.

Eli's spirit will be always in our hearts. His ashes reside on the sales floor in a beautiful pewter container made by Fred Fenster.

Donations in Eli's memory can be made to: Dane County Friends of Ferals, 627 Post Road, Madison, WI 53713.

"Hi everyone, I'm Ilse. I came to live at Studio Jewelers in late January after Hanna and Victoria found me at the DCFE shelter. I know I have big paws to fill here, and Hanna says I'm doing a good job so far. Like Eli, I was on the street for awhile before I was rescued. No one knows my history or just how old I am, but my staff thinks I'm about two. I love to play, and I'm absolutely fearless and very, very curious. I like to keep Hanna company when she works late—I even have my own chair in her office to nap on! Please stop by and say hello, I love to be petted and I want to get to know all of Eli's friends so they can be my friends, too."
